

What digital pillar am I promoting?

The digital pillar that I am promoting is kindness. Being kind online is a very crucial feeling that you need to have for people to want to talk and play with you so the logo that I have drawn is an example of a kind motion that you can do called reviving your teammates. Reviving your teammates can be one of the kindest things that you can do in a video game, and I think that everyone should do it more often as you gain respect, kind words and a feeling of excitement of wanting to play more.

How have I applied this digital pillar in my life?

- The logo that I have drawn is a picture of another person helping up a person who is injured. I am an avid fan of playing video games and mainly games where I need to revive the other person. This can only happen when the enemy has shot down my teammate, and I need to help them up. Reviving a teammate means that they gave your life priority before shooting the other player which can result in a loss. It may not seem much but when you start playing in higher ranked lobby's It is very Kind strategical gesture. I always try and revive my teammates before anything else and other people have also been inspired to do the same. With this tactic we have won many games and increased our ranked rating. I have also gained respect and is looked upon as someone who is kind and fun to play with.

Why is this
digital pillar
important
to me in creating a good
online reputation?

- Kindness online can be a great way to give yourself a positive image making people believe that you're someone who is kind and are nice to people that they talk and play with. Kindness is a major fundamental to keep a good digital footprint behind and can even get you a job in the future. Leaving a kind gesture like reviving a teammates can also inspire others to do the same and motivate other people. Gaming communities can be very toxic at times but spreading kindness can be a way to help and nurture the people and make communities more pleasant and delightful. Reviving teammates is a way to show kindness and you should try it to.
